

Part III: Local and Community Infrastructure

Take some time and think about the community where your farm is located. Does it have the elements needed to support the type of use you envision for your land, or the type of enterprise you would like to operate on your land? Your assessment of local services and support is important to identifying gaps that with community attention could be improved.

| Resource   | Poor | Adequate | Strong |
|--|------|----------|--------|
| Availability of farm supplies  |      |          |        |
| Repair services  |      |          |        |
| Availability of financing  |      |          |        |
| Availability of business support (training, tax professionals, etc.) |      |          |        |
| Competitive tenant market  |      |          |        |
| Availability of processing   |      |          |        |
| Competitive labor market   |      |          |        |
| Road system  |      |          |        |
| Local zoning policies  |      |          |        |
| County and Municipal government support of agriculture               |      |          |        |
| Community support of agriculture                                     |      |          |        |
| Local Farmers Market   |      |          |        |
| Urban pressure   |      |          |        |
| County economic development  |      |          |        |
| Agricultural and Forestal Districts                                  |      |          |        |
| Land Use Value Assessment  |      |          |        |
| Availability of health services                                      |      |          |        |
| Timber Markets   |      |          |        |

Notes:

---

---

---

---

---